Van Gogh painted it in 1888
when he was in Arles, a city in the south of France.

In Arles Van Gogh lived in the yellow house, that he represented in one of his paintings.

In October 1888 Van Gogh invited his friend Paul Gauguin to share the yellow house and form a small “artistic community”.

During their time in Arles,
Van Gogh and Gauguin painted together and influenced each other.

Sometimes they painted the same subjects such as ...

How did the story of Van Gogh and Gauguin end?

Self-Portrait with bandaged ear,
by Van Gogh
oil on canvas 1889

Paul Gauguin stayed only nine weeks at the yellow house.

One evening before Christmas 1888, after an argument between them, Van Gogh had a nervous crisis and cut off his own ear.

Then Paul Gauguin decided to leave Arles.
